

FORD T MODEL - 1910

FORD T MODEL - 1910

This image shows a complete exploded view of a model train set, laid out on a white background. The components are organized into several groups:
 - Locomotive and Cars: At the top left are the locomotive and several passenger cars, featuring various patterns and colors like grey, blue, and yellow.
 - Freight Cars: Below the passenger cars are several freight cars, including a large brown one and smaller grey ones.
 - Wheels and Axles: On the right side, there are multiple sets of wheels and axles, some with black wheels and others with white wheels.
 - Small Parts: At the bottom, there is a large collection of small parts, including axles, wheels, and various connectors, some of which are yellow and some are black.
 - Engine Components: On the far right, there are several yellow and black components that appear to be part of the engine or locomotive's internal mechanism.
 The overall layout is clean and organized, making it easy to identify each part of the set.
